How to Use Your Santa Mail

START HERE

Everything types right into the free Adobe Acrobat Reader. No Canva account, no app, no sign-up.

Make a letter in 5 minutes

1. Download the PDF from Etsy (You > Purchases > Download Files) and open it in the free Adobe Acrobat Reader on a computer.
2. Click any pale green box and type: the child's name, the date, three good things they did and the P.S.
3. The sample words are already in every box. Select them and type over them, or keep the ones you like.
4. Print on plain paper, or on cream or parchment cardstock for a real North Pole look. Print at 100% (Actual size).
5. Sign it in gold or red pen, fold it in three and slip it into an envelope with a North Pole label.

Pick the right letter

LETTER	BEST FOR
1 The Nice List	Any child, any year: the classic letter
2 Baby's First Christmas	A keepsake for a baby or toddler's first December
3 New Big Sibling	A child who became a big brother or sister this year
4 The Kindness Star	A child who shared, helped or included others
5 A Hard Year, Done Well	A move, a loss, an illness or a big change, handled bravely
6 A New Home	A family that moved house before Christmas

Ideas for Christmas Eve

- Leave the letter by the empty cookie plate.
- Roll it up and tie it with red ribbon.
- Hide the Nice List certificate in a stocking.
- Tuck a gift tag on the biggest present.
- Have the child fill in the wish list in early December.
- Frame the first Christmas letter as a keepsake.

Good to know

Fonts and colors are fixed so every page prints the way you see it. On a phone or tablet, use the Adobe Acrobat Reader app; other phone viewers may not show the type-in boxes. US Letter size; choose Fit to page for A4. Personal use only. This is a digital file: nothing will be shipped.

Christmas Eve, 2026

Dear Olivia ,

Ho ho ho! I have wonderful news, straight from my desk at the North Pole: your name is on this year's Nice List. I checked it twice, just like always, and then the elves checked it a third time because they were so pleased.

Being on the Nice List is not about being perfect. Nobody is perfect, not even Santa (ask the reindeer about the year I landed on the wrong roof). It is about trying your best, saying sorry when you need to, and being kind when nobody is watching. You did all of that this year.

Here are three things the elves wrote in their notebooks about you:

- ★ You helped set the table without being asked.
- ★ You were a good friend when someone felt sad.
- ★ You kept trying at reading, even on the hard pages.

Keep being exactly who you are. On Christmas Eve, when the sleigh bells ring over your roof, I will be smiling, because I know a very good kid lives there.

With love and a sleigh full of joy,

Santa Claus

Christmas Eve, 2026

Dear Baby Theo,

Welcome to the world, little one, and welcome to your very first Christmas! The elves and I have been waiting to meet you since the day you arrived. Your name went onto the Nice List that very same morning, which is the fastest anyone has ever made it.

You may not remember this Christmas, but the people who love you will. They will remember the lights shining in your eyes, the crinkle of wrapping paper in your tiny hands, and the cozy feeling of having you here at last.

Here is what the North Pole already knows about you:

- ★ Your smile lights up the whole house.
- ★ You fell asleep to your very first Christmas song.
- ★ You have the sweetest giggle the elves have ever heard.

This year I will tiptoe extra quietly past your room so I do not wake you. Sleep tight, little one. There are so many happy Christmases ahead of you.

With love and a sleigh full of joy,

Santa Claus

P.S. Grown-ups, take lots of pictures this year!

Christmas Eve, 2026

Dear Mason,

This was a big year in your house. Your family grew, and that means you got a brand-new job: big brother or big sister. The elves tell me you are doing it beautifully.

Being the big one is not always easy. Sometimes the baby needs lots of cuddles and lots of time, and you have to wait your turn. I want you to know something important: there is plenty of love to go around, and there is a very special spot on my list that only the oldest gets to have.

Three things the elves saw you do as a big sibling:

- ★ You helped pick out the baby's tiny socks.
- ★ You sang a song when the baby was crying.
- ★ You were patient when Mom and Dad were busy.

Your little one is so lucky to have someone like you to look up to. This Christmas, I am leaving a surprise with your name on it, because big siblings deserve their very own.

With love and a sleigh full of joy,

Santa Claus

Christmas Eve, 2026

Dear Ava,

Every year I give out a few very rare gold stars for kindness, and this year one of them has your name on it. The elves keep a special Kindness Book at the North Pole, and your page is completely full.

Kindness is the best kind of Christmas magic. It keeps working long after the presents are open and the cookies are gone. When you are kind, the people around you feel it, and then they are kind too. That is how it spreads all the way around the world.

A few kind things the elves wrote in the Kindness Book:

- ★ You shared your snack with a friend who forgot theirs.
- ★ You asked a new kid to play with you at recess.
- ★ You said thank you without being reminded.

Here is a little North Pole secret: every kind thing you do helps my sleigh fly a little faster. Keep it up, and I will see you on Christmas Eve.

With love and a sleigh full of joy,

Santa Claus

P.S. Hang your gold star somewhere you will see it every morning.

Christmas Eve, 2026

Dear Liam ,

I know this year was not an easy one. Some days were hard, some things changed, and sometimes you felt worried or sad. That is okay. Even Santa has hard days now and then.

What I want you to know is this: I saw how brave you were. Being brave does not mean you are never scared. It means you keep going and keep trying, even when it is tough. You did that again and again, and I am so proud of you.

Three brave things the elves saw you do this year:

- ★ You kept trying, even on the really hard days.
- ★ You told a grown-up when you were feeling sad.
- ★ You still found ways to laugh and play.

Next year has so many good things waiting for you. Whenever you see the brightest star in the winter sky, remember that someone at the North Pole is cheering for you.

With love and a sleigh full of joy,

Santa Claus

P.S. You are stronger than you know. The whole North Pole believes in you.

Christmas Eve, 2026

Dear Harper,

The elves had to update my big map this year, because you moved to a new home! Do not worry one bit: my sleigh always knows where to find you, and the reindeer have already practiced landing on your new roof.

Moving can feel strange. There are new rooms, new sounds at night, and maybe a new school and new friends to meet. You handled all of it with so much courage, and the elves noticed.

Things the elves noticed about you in your new home:

- ★ You helped pack your own boxes.
- ★ You said hello to a new neighbor.
- ★ You picked the perfect spot for the Christmas tree.

A home is not just the walls and the roof. It is the people inside who love you, and they came right along with you. I will see you on Christmas Eve at your new address.

With love and a sleigh full of joy,

Santa Claus
